BECOMING CRITICAL!

England Said to Have Purchased Delagoa Bay.

Germany Considers this as Threatening to Transvaal.

British Public Opinion Changing on the Venezuela Question.

NOW WILLING TO ARRITRATE.

London, Jan. 10. The most important development in the South African com-plication to-day is the fact that, in spite of all denials, it is now believed in many quarters that there is some truth in the Tumor that Great Britain has purchased Delagoa Bay from Portugal. It may turn but to be an excuse for assembling such a powerful British fleet as the one which will be anchored off Portland Tuesday

As it is announced that the government of Transvaai has demanded, among other things, that Great Britain forego he right to obtain possession of Beingon ay, and as Germany may look upon this is a more which will seriously threaten he future of Transvant, the situation, if report is true, will become more critical. A dispatch from Pretoria this morning as the government of Transyaal has an meed that it is determined to foster oning, and these interested in it need of sacrifice their holdings for the benet of the "agitating clique" of Rand. This dispatch says that only 10,000 bers are under arms, but it adds signifiantly, they will not disband until the onditions of the surrender of the litunders of Rand have been fully carried

Great importance is attached here to an ticle in the Hamburger Nachrichten id to have been inspired by Prince Bisarck, in which it indirectly disapproves be government's attitude, and adds: "The duty of the government is The duty of the government is more defend the internal and external peace the country againt disturbances, than

A Lone Highwayman Robs Officials of the U V. & P. Railroad.

A correspondent of the Prescott Journal-

Miner, writing from Jerome, says To night, about a o'clock, the United Verde & Pacific railway office at this place, was held up by one masked man; there were in the office at the time, Agent W. E. Hall, O. K. Oleson, John Nutter and Ed. Reed, who were sitting around the stove, just preparing to leave for the night; the man entered the waiting room closing the door beaund him, and calling to the memment- "shell out what

He was, apparently, a young man about six feet tall, were new overalls, dark shirt, old wormout gloves, and had a pice of knit undershirt tied entirely over his head, with two holes for eyes, as a mask. He was very cool and deliberate, talked with Hall and looked at the safe, even examining some of the papers therein, in hopes that they were money. He acured a small amount, probably not $50, as none of the offices or business houses ever carry much money on hand, the bulk of the business being done with checks. He backed out of the office and was lost sight of entirely; he undoubtedly had ente-lerates, as the curtains were up and he was not at all cautious about his entirely upon part of those present. Hall wired at once to S. F. Meguire, at the hotel down town, to get Roberts, the district constable. Meguire sent word at once to Constable Roberts, who is now on the lookout, but the chances are very slight for any clue, as the party could get out of sight and be gone before one could
